The Symbolon Method® is globally unique. It combines art, archetypes, symbolism, and coaching in a way that enables an unparalleled depth of reflection.

Anyone who completes this training does not just gain a qualification – they experience a true expansion of mindset. Many describe the method as a "mind-opener" that enables deep effectiveness and opens up new spaces for thought and action across all areas of life.

The Symbolon Method® is inspired by the depth psychology of C.G. Jung. Its developer, Christine Kranz, studied for eight semesters at the renowned C.G. Jung Institute and combines this depth psychological knowledge with systemic approaches and various techniques – including the integral concepts of Ken Wilber.

Participants learn how to integrate artworks, symbolic language, and holistic developmental perspectives into reflection processes.

Through the experience of archetypes and symbols, a deep-acting access to one's own personality emerges – one that sustainably promotes self-reflection, integration, and personal development.

Structure of the Symbolon Reflection Training
